Need for the Scott Bill.
The Alabama mine horror in which more than 100 lives are reported lost has had the effect of quickening action in congress for the passage of the measure. The mining industry in mines in the department of the interior.
The appalling frequency of these mine disasters has convinced the government that it can no longer insist to private enterprise the sacred duty of safeguarding human life employed in the mines. Those private agencies have shown a woeful lack of efficiency in this direction and thousands of lives have paid the toll of mismanagement or lack of management.

The bill in congress which is constructed on comprehensive lines which it is believed will give a large measure of relief and protection to the miners. Criminal negligence undoubtedly has played a part in many of these mine accidents and corners juries have disclosed or mine-owners have admitted and this bill contemplates a reduction of the possibility of this sort of reckless indifference to human safety. Of the bill's enactment into law there seems now to be no doubt. It has only to go through the last process of a conference and to receive the president's signature and will be understood, encounter no obstacle in that course—

MUST HAVE A COLLEGE DEGREE.

Educational Requirements of Principals of Chicago Schools Raised.

Chicago, May 19.—The board of education has decided to raise the educational requirements for principals of graded schools and instructors in high schools. Hereafter no applicant will be eligible to take examinations for these posts who has not a college degree.

Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of schools, said: "do not think that the normal school graduate is sufficiently advanced in scholarship to assume the duties of a principal in the graded schools. It is now a simple matter for the ambitious teacher to acquire a college degree."

graph and telephone wires leading into town.

BRIbery CHARGED IN SALT LAKE

Councilman Says He Was Offered Money to Accuse Mayor.

Salt Lake City, May 19.—Councilman F. S. Fernstrom started the city council last night by asserting that he had an offer of a bribe. He charged Mayor J. B. Brannan with collusion with a contractor in changing the terms of a sewer pipe contract.

The council authorized the appointment of an investigating committee.

An International Menace.

Society has no graver fault to answer for than that it permits "white slavery" to flourish. At least as far as 1902 such an international gathering was held and since that time, due in some large measure to the agitation set in motion at that conference, the evil has been curbed to an appreciable extent.
More stringent laws have been enacted and enforced in Great Britain and many other countries and much of the traffic between the nations has been broken up.

That much remains to be done, however, is self-evident. In the international congress in London, official and unofficial, have disclosed the fact that the importation of girls and young women for immoral purposes still thrives. Congress and the various state legislatures have undertaken to check the traffic. Their activity has undoubtedly had an effect, but the great menacing problem remains to be solved.
—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Prince and His Bigots.

The sovereigns of England are called upon to subscribe, as an oath in which they declare their belief that the invocation or adoration of the Virgin Mary or any other saint and the sacrifice of the mass are offenses against the laws of God and man, and that the Catholic religion is a superstition and idolatrous. Prince George has asked that a change be made in the oath, for he, as his father before him, dislikes the idea of offending the Catholics of his realm and the other Catholics among whom he counts friends.

But a storm of bitter protest has arisen.
Extremists among Protestants have appealed to members of parliament to decline Prince George's bequest, quoting Scripture, history and the words of the apostles to the effect that it is a political obligation for those who do not stand by the oath.

The bigot is a strange creature. If the new oath fails to take a solemn pledge outrageous to the religious faith of some millions of his people he is thereupon made the object of hatred and possibly of persecution from philopists. If he bows to the oath he states a positive opinion upon affairs of which, actually, he has no such opinion whatsoever. Yet the bigot is prepared to condemn the king who takes of others' feelings and to express admiration for a king who publicly subscribes to a lie.—Toledo Blade.

Wants Support from Husband's Estate

Mrs. Agnes Jennings Makes Statement Before Superior Court—Relatives Testify that She Shows no Signs of Insanity—April Additional Term Adjourned without Date.

The last day of the April additional term of the civil superior court was occupied with the trial of the case of Agnes Jennings vs. W. H. Jennings, a suit in which the plaintiff asks that the defendant provide for her maintenance suitable to his means. The plaintiff's testimony was not completed during the day, and at 4.10 o'clock court was adjourned until the next day, and the case will be taken up next Tuesday at the May session of the court, Judge Shumway remaining here.

On Thursday morning there was a conference looking toward a settlement of the case, but it was fruitless, and the taking of testimony was started on the complaint that Mrs. Jennings alleges adultery on the part of her husband, and claims he is worth $50,000.
She wants a trustee named for one-third of his estate, and the proceeds therefrom to be used for her support.
The allegations of the plaintiff are denied by the defendant.

Married in 1908.

Mrs. Jennings was the first witness, and testified that she is living with her sister at 65 Union street. Her maiden name was Agnes Collins, and she married W. H. Jennings March 20, 1906, and went to live in Mr. Jennings' home in Laurel Hill, where his mother, now Mrs. W. F. Hill, Mr. Hill and his three children lived. This continued for three years and two months. On April 22, 1909, the plaintiff found her husband whispering with the servant, Mary Brennan, in the kitchen, and she called them to account, but the husband refused to answer her questions. The plaintiff claimed that she had reason to be, as the defendant had told her of his actions with the servant and of having sent her to Boston in a trunk. A lively time followed, and Mrs. Hill came in and said that Mrs. Jennings would have to get out. The next morning Mrs. Jennings prepared her own breakfast, and her husband struck her and Mr. Hill pushed her, while Mrs. Hill told Mrs. Jennings not to talk to her. Dr.
Stearns, telephoned for, being told there was a crazy woman in the house.
He responded, and said that Mrs. Jennings was insane, and that she was being taken to the state hospital by her husband. She claimed she found a letter and postal in his pocket from a woman named Minnie Brown, but Mrs.
Hill didn't lay much stress upon it.
The husband, longed for the time when he could be alone together.

Appealed for Money.

When Mrs. Jennings asked Mrs. Hill for some money she was referred to Mr. Jennings, and upon appealing to him she was referred to his lawyer, C. F. Thayer. She said she always got money from Mrs. Hill, never from her husband. She called at Attorney Thayer's office and it was proposed that she board with her sister, for which she would be allowed $4 a week.
She was to have a room at the Laurel Hill home, but could not enter other rooms, and had to leave notes for her husband. Her husband told her the conditions would last until he could get a divorce. On May 27 Mrs. Jennings advertised he would pay no bills contracted in his name. He told her she could get plenty of men to give her money. She claimed she found a
woman named Minnie Brown, but Mrs.
Hill didn't lay much stress upon it.

For two months after the trouble she lived at the Jennings house and eventually returned to her home. Two summers were passed by her at a home Mr. Jennings has in Lebanon, where he cared for the house and several horses. He often had several men working at the house, and at one time told her he was worth $60,000. She declared she was willing to live with her husband and that when living he worked at a work at Pine home. Clothes ordered had been held up and she had been refused money for a doctor. She thought she ought to have $10 a month for her support.

Under cross examination she testified that she is 29 years of age and was married in Williamstown by Rev. R. D.
Hatch, an Episcopal minister. She

MESSAGE FROM CROW

Given by Rev. William Petzhold of Montana at Central Baptist Church.

A message from the Crow Indian mission field, delivered by Rev. William Petzhold of Lodge Grass, Montana, on Thursday evening, was of unusual interest to the congregation. The transformation in lives accomplished by the influence of Christianity at the Central Baptist proper meeting.

Rev. P. C. Wright, who said most of the evening, was very much impressed by Rev. Mr. Petzhold's story of the Crow mission field, which he had heard while on the train coming home last week from the Laymen's conference in Chicago, and had secured his promise to speak here.

In speaking of the Indians, Rev. Mr.
Petzhold said there were 12,000,000 in North and South America, and that, contrary to general belief, they were not decreasing in number. There are 300, 000 in the United States, and their numbers have increased by 40,000 in the last ten years, but it is a sad commentary on the Christian church that while they have been sending missionaries to all parts of the world for over 100 years, there are still 54,000 Indians in the United States to whom no missionary has been sent.

While the Cherokees, Navajo and Sioux show every evidence of civilization, the Crows, he said, are on the lowest round of the ladder. He told of the tribal customs, and of the missionary runs in many instances, and said that degrading sin was the prominent factor in their lives, among which he mentioned the absence of sanctity of the marriage relations and the great prevalence of unhealthy conditions and diseased lives.

He related many such things, and of the lives of even the fiercest and most bloodthirsty of the Indians transformed by Christianity, and told how the missionaries engaged in the work for the Indian, who for years has been crippled mentally, morally and physically by the treatment he has received. His mission station is in the Crow reservation, which is about 70 by 90 miles, and he has two out-stations. He said that the progress was enough to make all those interested thank God and take courage for the future.

Broad Street Schoolroom Closed.

On Thursday noon the room at the Broad street school, occupied by the third and fourth grades was closed by order of Health Officer N. B. Lewis, owing to the fact that Marion, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Biven of Broad street, who attends there, was taken sick on Wednesday with scarlet fever. The room will be fumigated.
